HOW THE BOT SCORE WORKS

- CAM's own model (X model v1.4.0) scores every account from 0 to 100, with signal weights grounded in research from DFRLab, Indiana University's Observatory on Social Media, and the Cresci studies.
- Signals include account age, posting rate and bursts, follower ratios, handle patterns, default avatars, and profile completeness. No single signal counts on its own.
- Post content and ideology are not inputs. The score is not a probability, and manual validation of the flagged accounts is underway.

THE "MASS-REPORTED BY BOTS" POST WAS ITSELF AMPLIFIED BY BOTS, FAKE PROFILES, AND INAUTHENTIC ACCOUNTS

On October 19, 2026, @wallface wrote that some of his posts had been "mass-reported by bots" in "platform manipulation aimed at silencing me." Of the 68 accounts that amplified that post, 21 (30.9%) were identified as bots, fake profiles, or inauthentic accounts, one of the highest shares of any post in the study.

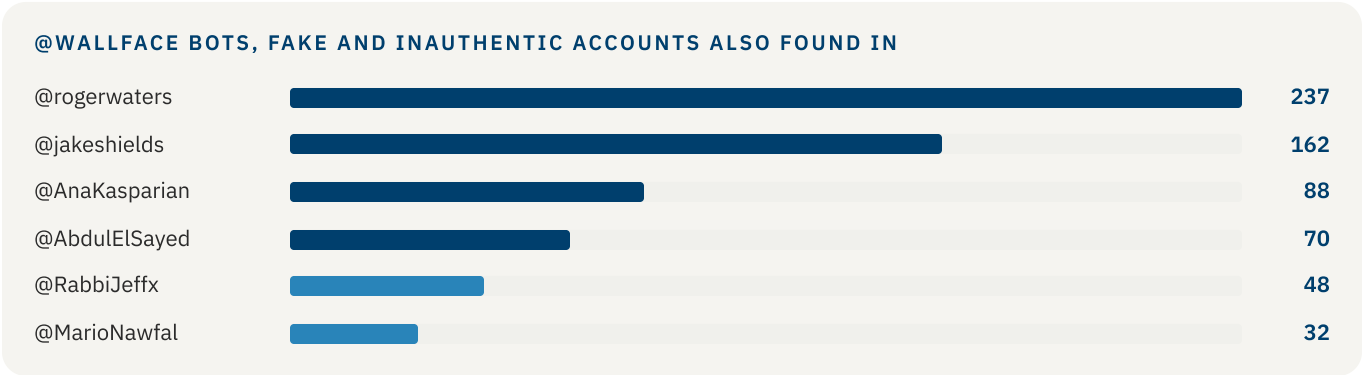

A conservative count by design

CAM reports a high cutoff on purpose. Each step up removes accounts that still look automated, so the headline figure understates the presence of bots, fake profiles, and inauthentic accounts rather than overstating it.

SCORE CUTOFF	ALL ACCOUNTS	FOLLOWERS	REPOSTERS	COMMENTERS	QUOTERS
65 (CAM standard)	3,815 (35.6%)	39.3%	35.5%	22.2%	11.9%
67.7 (strict)	3,427 (32.0%)	35.3%	32.1%	19.6%	10.6%
75 (this report)	2,597 (24.3%)	27.2%	23.7%	13.9%	8.0%
80 (stricter)	2,141 (20.0%)	22.7%	18.7%	11.1%	6.7%

The same inauthentic accounts recur across CAM's studies

428 of the bots, fake profiles, and inauthentic accounts amplifying @wallface also showed up in CAM's earlier studies of other accounts, and almost all of them (416) were flagged the same way there too.
